TOWN AND COUNTY.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
CHAS. G. CARR—Notice.

Consecration Meeting.

A consecration meeting for men only will be held at the Methodist Church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock p. m. The meeting will be led by Mr. W. P. Fife.

Closed.

During this week the gymnasium and amusement parlor of the Young Men's Christian Association will be closed every night, on account of the Gospel Services, but will be open during the day from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Instantaneous Views.

We are glad to learn that Mr. McKee Barclay, Manager of the Carolina Engraving Company, who does such excellent and artistic work, is preparing for the Centennial a beautiful book of instantaneous views of points in and about Fayetteville.

Fun for the Boys and Girls.

Mr. C. L. Campbell informs us that, in order to add to the amusement of the fun-loving, foot-races, bag-races, wheelbarrow races and potato-grabs, with appropriate prizes, will be held during the fair—on which particular day, will be hereafter announced.

Agricultural Address.

Hon. W. J. Green has accepted the invitation to deliver the annual agricultural address before the Cumberland County Agricultural Society this year. He will speak at 12 m. on "Farmers' Day," which, on account of the Centennial Celebration, will be Friday.

In Error.

In the article of last Friday's semi-weekly OBSERVER, making a report of the marriage of Mr. Tatum and Miss Small, the name of Mr. Howell, manager of the office of the Southern Express Company at this point, should have been published in the list of ushers instead of that of Mr. Robt. Sutherland.

Boys Take Warning.

Some boy (or boys), unthoughtfully or otherwise, has been availing himself of the secret pleasure of effacing the notice on the black-board placed before the entrance to the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association every Sunday. Hereafter there will be an eye on the black-board, and the first caught thus expressing his feelings relative to the Association again will be made an example of in unmistakable terms.

A Merited Compliment.

Our eloquent Baptist pastor, Rev. W. B. Oliver, finds appreciation away from home as well as among his own people. The Ten-City Daily speaks in very high terms of his sermon in the Baptist Church at Winston on Tuesday night last; and, after a report of the discourse, has the following:

His illustrations were all beautiful and striking, and were delivered in a very impressive manner. Mr. Oliver is making a very favorable impression upon the people of Winston-Salem.

We hope that, when the good work of revival commences in the church here, Rev. H. A. Brown will come to the help of Mr. Oliver. We want to hear Mr. Brown once more before we die.

The Centennial Ball.

No one of the many attractions of the Centennial Celebration is anticipated with more delight by the young and pleasure-loving than the Centennial Ball complimentary to Miss Winnie Davis. Its management is in good hands, and in style and elegance it will be such an entertainment as is rarely surpassed on any imposing occasion. The following is the Reception Committee in full:

Dr. J. A. Hodges, Chairman.
J. R. Williams, W. P. Campbell, H. J. Marshall, Geo. Underwood, E. J. Lilly, Jr., Dr. G. B. Patterson, J. C. Huske, Jr., Dr. J. R. Pearsall, B. R. Breeden, J. K. Strange, B. R. Huske, A. G. Harrall, J. A. McLaughlin, Dr. H. W. Lilly.

Let North Carolinians show their undying love for that living monument to Southern Liberty and Constitutional Liberty, Jefferson Davis, by giving him such a welcome at the Centennial Celebration here November 20th, 21st and 22nd, as will call forth the praise and admiration of the present and generations unborn.

No Afternoon Meeting.

Owing to the consecration services to take place in the Methodist Church next Sunday at 3 p. m., there will be no afternoon meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Struck by Lightning.

During the violent storm of rain, thunder and lightning last Saturday afternoon, a house in the vicinity of Mims's Pond was struck by lightning, the chimney being demolished, and a colored woman named Williams was prostrated by the shock. Her injury was very serious, and it was thought at one time that she could not recover.

An Attempt at Burglary.

Tuesday night, after all the inmates had retired, and everything was quiet, at Mrs. Thos. G. Hall's boarding house (Mrs. Isaac Dodd's), Miss Mary Hall heard some one at one of the dining-room windows. But, to be sure that she was not mistaken, she waited until she heard the window raised and chairs in the dining-room move before making an alarm. She then called her mother; and, on entering the room where the noise was heard, the window was found raised and the blinds open. Mrs. Hall had closed and latched this window herself just before retiring. The would-be burglar evidently was acquainted with the surroundings and mode of ingress.

To the Confederate Veterans.

A spacious camp for the ex-Confederate Veterans will be established for the Centennial Celebration, and no effort will be spared to render those true and faithful sons of the State and the South comfortable during their visit to this city. But those old fellows (and alas! the youngest of them are no longer "chickens"), used to providing for emergencies in the past, will appreciate our suggestion that, to increase their comfort, and be prepared for possible inclement weather, it will be well for each to strap an extra blanket to his grip-sack.

State papers will please copy.

Thanks, But It Wouldn't Do.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Winston Sentinel, makes the following suggestion:

Miss Winnie Davis has gone to Europe with Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer. Since she can't be in two places at once, the boys who were preparing to give her a big ball at the Fayetteville Centennial will miss her. Why not appoint a committee to select the most beautiful and accomplished North Carolina girl and give the ball in honor of her?

The idea is, in some respects, a good one, and would be gratifying to us, if carried out; but, proud as the Fayetteville people are of the lovely women of their city, they are too modest to give a ball, on so great an occasion as the Centennial held in their own midst, complimentary to a Fayetteville girl.

Some Reasons for Exercise.

1. Body and mind are both gifts, and ought to be cared for, and our Maker will hold us responsible for the proper use of them.
2. Exercise makes one feel like a new man, and gradually increases the physical powers and gives strength to resist sickness.
3. If you want to feel like a healthy boy, you must act part of the time like one—"all work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy"—and it is as true in our mature life as it was when we were boys.
4. A sound body lies at the foundation of all that goes to make life a success. Exercise will help you get it.
5. It will help young men to live chaste lives.

Out on the Grounds.

A day or two since we rode out to the Fair Grounds with the efficient President of the Cumberland County Agricultural Society, Mr. Walter Watson, and we were pleased to see such extensive preparations going on for the annual exhibition. An immense amount of work has been done in extension of buildings, construction and repairs, and the officers of the society are very active and earnest in their efforts to guarantee the success of this year's exhibition.

To the ladies of Fayetteville we again especially appeal to give all the help possible to the fair in their departments. If it is not too late, we venture to suggest a flower display, in which all can contribute, and which will be enjoyed by everyone present.

Frequent recent conversations with Mr. Watson have familiarized us with his ideas with regard to the future of the Cumberland Fair, and the best means of assuring that to future more and more gratifying successes every year. He believes with us that this annual gathering of the people—having for its paramount and central point of interest an exposition of the agricultural products and manufactured goods of the State and section, together with the fruits of skilled handiwork in every branch of industry—cannot fail to prove a potent factor in developing material resources, stimulating material enterprises, and promoting material prosperity.

The time is especially ripe for renewed efforts in behalf of the fair. The grounds and buildings are in excellent order, the large crowd which may be confidently expected guarantees the financial success of the exhibition, and a creditable display will advertise us by the thousands of visitors more effectively than we ever advertised before. Then, too, we are peculiarly favored in location, with the certainty of increased advantages in this respect. By the speedy completion of the eastern extension to Wilmington, and the southern extension to Camden Junction, of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, with the southern extension of the Atlantic Coast Line, which we may look for at an early day, Fayetteville will be the best possible point for a great annual fair of the Carolinas.

This Morning's Addresses.

A large, intelligent and appreciative audience assembled in Williams Hall this morning to hear the addresses of Prof. Alderman, Prof. Melver and Dr. Jas. A. Hodges. The narrow margin between the close of the exercises and the hour of going to press precludes such a report of these excellent speeches as their merit deserves. Large as the attendance was, everyone came away with the regret that the business hours of the day prevented his friends from sharing in the pleasure that he had just enjoyed. Messrs. B. B. Adams, A. C. Monroe and L. R. Breeden, appointed to embody an expression of their appreciation of the Institute by the teachers of Cumberland county, submitted the following:

1. We hail with pleasure any effort to promote popular education in North Carolina.
2. We fully and unequivocally endorse the holding of Teachers' Institutes to the end of bringing about a uniform system of school-management, text books and modes of teaching, believing that this much desired result can be reached in no better and less expensive way.
3. Our thanks are due Prof. E. A. Alderman and our worthy Superintendent, H. McD. Robinson, Esq., for their uniform courtesy and valuable instruction to us during the session of the Institute.

Personal Penicils.

Mr. J. C. Black, of Carthage, a talented member of the Moore county bar, visited Fayetteville this week.

Mr. D. H. McLean, the well-known able lawyer of Harnett county, is professionally attending Superior Court this week.

Mr. W. C. Petty, a prominent business man of Manly, Moore county, was in Fayetteville this week in attendance on Superior Court.

Hon. A. M. Waddell, of Wilmington, was here for a few hours on Monday and Tuesday, having professional business on the civil docket of Superior Court. Our brilliant ex-member of Congress can do few places in North Carolina where he will be greeted with more heartiness and affectionate esteem than in Fayetteville.

Superior Court.

The November term of the Superior Court of Cumberland county is in session this week—his Honor Judge Shippen on the bench and Mr. Frank McNeill Solicitor. The charge of Judge Shippen to the Grand Jury was brief, but much to the point and forcible. Besides some continuances, the following were tried yesterday: John Hatcher and Sarah Evans, an offense against morals, convicted.

Jack Pureell, perjury: 12 months in penitentiary.

Wm. Jones, larceny: 12 months in penitentiary.

This morning the case of Mazingo for arson was commenced.

The attendance on court is very large.

The Great Attraction at Last.

At the meeting of the Centennial Committees yesterday Dr. J. A. Hodges moved the adoption of a plan symbolizing the thirteen original States in the imposing pageant of Thursday, 21st inst., which was unanimously adopted, and which will largely add to the attractions of the parade and to the pleasure of spectators. Thirteen floats, drawn by horses, appropriately decorated, are to have places in the line at suitable intervals, and a young lady, representing the State selected, occupies each float, whose charms, tasteful attire and the accompanying mottoes and devices which will typify her allegorical position, will elicit the delight and admiration of the thousands along the route. On the float which bears the figure of North Carolina will also be a representation of the Goddess of Liberty—Miss Maggie Hawley having been selected to sustain that character.

Our energies and the sums we succeed in obtaining for this eventful occasion can provide us with the materials in gross for the celebration, and the crowds to participate in our amusement; but, after all, it has always been our pride and pleasure to owe it to the charms and accomplishments of the lovely women of Fayetteville that the stranger enters our welcoming gates with delight, and turns his back upon us with a sigh of regret—whether it be in seasons of rejoicing, with hearts gladdened by the achievements of the present, and the hopes of the future, or in the hours given to tribute of the past and its unforgotten dead. This contemplated participation by the young ladies in the ceremonies of the Centennial Celebration is perfectly fitting, militating in no sense against their retiring modesty, and will be something for them to recall with pardonable pride when age has tenderly touched the gloss of their tresses and the bloom of their cheeks, and there come alas! to all of us so many "hours for memory and for tears."

The following young ladies will represent the thirteen original States:

Miss Maggie Pemberton, North Carolina.
" Laura Glover, Maryland.
" Hattie Sutton, Pennsylvania.
" Laura Pemberton, South Carolina.
" Laura C. Thomson, New York.
" Anna H. Green, Georgia.
Miss Jessie Williams, Connecticut.
" Annie Moore, New Hampshire.
" Phila Pemberton, Rhode Island.
" Jennie Rose, Massachusetts.
" Bert Watson, New Jersey.
" Bert McDuffie, Delaware.
" Ruth Smith, Virginia.

County Institute.

Tuesday morning's session was opened with Scriptural reading and prayer by Mr. H. McD. Robinson, County Superintendent of Public Instruction. After the reading of the minutes of the previous day's proceedings the roll was called, showing 31 teachers in attendance—13 males and 18 females. Prof. Alderman devoted the morning session to a consideration and discussion of the School-Room and School Organization. In forcible terms he pointed out the evils of the past defective system, and advised the efficient remedies therefor, pointing his remarks by illustrative anecdote and incisive comparison. Discipline is essential, but it should be judiciously employed, and recourse to the rod is advisable only when other methods of correction fail. During the noonday intermission those lingering about the court-room were entertained with excellent music on the organ by Miss Hattie Jones.

The afternoon was occupied in the important subject of the teaching of reading in the public schools.

Prof. Alderman was very impressive and interesting in his views as to this matter, and the teachers felt that they rarely spent hours more profitably employed, carrying away hints, suggestions and helps in their work which will be of incalculable value in the years to come.

His strictures on the old blue-back spelling book of many years' standing were at least very forcible, and his points were well-taken—though whether they were altogether just and tenable throughout is open to question. Common-school education must evince progress as well as everything else, and keep abreast of the times, in order to be fully useful and satisfactory, and improvement need not be iconoclastic; but we must permit ourselves to doubt the merit of the abuse heaped upon certain old text-books—the ancient Speller, Emerson's Arithmetic and Smith's English Grammar, which tutored the minds and polished the brains of men who were the world's intellectual giants.

Thursday was given to the examination of teachers for Prof. Alderman's three years' certificate—very thorough, painstaking and rigid, eight applicants sustaining the ordeal throughout.

Aberdeen & Albemarle Railroad.

Capt. McDuffie, of Fayetteville, reached here Tuesday last, and on yesterday started from this point to locate and survey a route in contemplation of extending the Aberdeen & Albemarle Railroad to Troy. This survey, we understand, is for the purpose of ascertaining as near as possible what the cost will be to grade the road from Candor, to which point Mr. Page is now grading it, to this place. When the work of surveying is completed and Capt. McDuffie makes his report, then we will have some definite idea of what it will cost to get the road to Troy. In the meantime, let us make up our minds to have the road, assured of the fact that its cost cannot be greater than its value will be in developing the vast resources of our country, assisting all existing industries and building up others, creating a home market for the products of the soil, and thus benefiting all classes of our people. Keep the ball moving—Troy Vidette.

Our contemporary's article "rings true," as old Caleb Balderston would say. The building of the Aberdeen & Albemarle Railroad will assuredly accomplish a splendid work in the development of a fine country, with manifold and almost untapped resources. We have hardly yet more than skimmed the service of Montgomery county's mineral wealth, while railway connection would open to the world an agricultural territory in Cumberland, Moore, Montgomery, Stanly, etc., capable of supporting ten times the present population of thrifty people, as well as of rendering the line traversing it one of the most profitable in the South.

A Settlement Agreed Upon.

A basis of settlement between the county of Cumberland and the bondsmen of the late Neill McQueen and W. A. McArthur, tax collector, was agreed upon by the Board of County Commissioners and the committee appointed to act in conjunction with them yesterday. The committee reported in substance that the amount due was about $11,565, which included the listed and unlisted property and poll; that the bondsmen would be entitled to a commission of about $566, which would leave, in round numbers, $11,000 due. For this the committee agreed to accept $8,471 and the lands sold at public sale here last spring, amounting to about $2,500. The proceedings of the meeting are embodied in the following report:

"The undersigned committee, appointed to settle with the sureties of Neill McQueen, late Sheriff, and W. A. McArthur, former Tax Collector for the County of Cumberland, report that we recommend to the commissioners a settlement as follows, viz.:

Amount heretofore found to be due for year 1886 and 1887, $4,113.84.
Deduct for land bid off by Archy McQueen, 1,790.22

2,323.62
Deduct 5 per cent. commission, 116.18
Balance for 1886, $2,207.44

Amount heretofore found to be due for the year 1887, $7,442.45
Deduct for land bid off by McQueen, 848.56

$6,593.89
Deduct 5 per cent. commission, 329.69
$6,264.20

Total amount, $8,471.64
The amount to be paid in cash, or its equivalent, to J. B. Troy, Treasurer of the County, on or before the 16th inst., and bids or certificates for the land referred to to be transferred to Henry C. Fisher, Sheriff, in trust for the benefit of the county.

The Republican high tariff must go!

Maryland denounces and condemns it!

JUST as the Observer predicted:—WANNAMAKER has taken water on the telegraphic business, and NORVIN GREEN has come out with flying colors.

OHIO, Iowa, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and Mississippi have set the tariff reform ball in motion, and the remainder of the nation will follow suit in due time.

VERY well, President Harrison and Gov. FOWLE, we are ready for the thanksgiving appointed by your proclamation. "Which we wish to remark, and our meaning is plain," FORAKER and MAHON will never give thanks again.

THE Sampson county people are to be heartily congratulated on having secured Gov. Lee, of Virginia, as a guest at their fair next month. He ought to be a "drawing card" on any great occasion. Noble boy, as the writer knew him years ago, he is every whit as noble a man.

MR. W. E. CHRISTIAN, of the Charlotte Democrat, made a rattling speech at the jubilee meeting in that city last Thursday over the great Democratic triumph, which was frequently applauded. If brother CHRISTIAN made as good a speech as he does a paper we would have been glad to have heard him.

AMONG the other unfortunate circumstances connected with and growing out of the lynching of STACK at Morganton some weeks since, it has caused brethren to fall out who should weld together in unity. The Jenkins Cross Roads Farmers' Alliance and the Burke county Farmers' Alliance are bombarding each other at long range with preambles and resolutions the very reverse of amity.

THE reports made up to be submitted to the Baptist State Convention at Henderson to-morrow show that there has been a gain of 15,000 members during the year just ending, and that $140,000 has been raised for religious and educational purposes; built 100 churches at a cost of $100,000; has expended $12,500 in State mission work, $8,500 for foreign missions, and $2,200 for mission work in other Southern States and in Cuba; $4,000 has been raised by the Board of Education and thirty-two students maintained at Wake Forest College. For Sunday-school mission work $4,577 has been raised and applied, and for colportage $1,600.

FORAKER's telegraphing his congratulations to CAMPBELL "reminds us." On an ocean steamer lay a passenger in his berth, tossing and writhing in all the horrible discomfort and disquietude of mal de mer—so seakick that he didn't care if the boat, gave a great heave and went to the bottom "Steward, what in the name of heaven is that?" he asked, as a bumping and shouting overhead added to his bodily woes. "Sailor on the upper-deck, sah." "But I thought he said something?" "All's well," he said, sah. "Lord, what a liar!" growled the sick passenger, as he turned his face to the wall.

THE people of Williamsburg, Va., had a great demonstration Wednesday night following the election. An impromptu coffin was carried aloft in the crowd, which represented BILLY MAHON. Here is the epitaph:

William Mahone: born September, 1834, died November 5, 1889. He that is born black is honorable, but he that is born white and turneth black is dishonorable.

Here lies the body of Billy Mahone, As dead as a dog and dry as a bone; Here he lies, and here he lies, Nobody laughs and nobody cries; Little in heart and little in figure, Came to his death by swallowing a negro; Earth to earth, and dust to dust, If God won't have him the devil must.

WHEN I AM DEAD.

When I am dead, my dearest,
Sing no sad songs for me;
Plant thou no roses at my head,
Nor shady cypress tree;
For the green grass above me
Will grow as green as mine;
And if thou wilt, remember,
And if thou wilt, forget.
I shall not see the shadows,
I shall not feel the rain;
I shall not hear the nightingale
Sing on, as if in pain;
And dreaming through the twilight
That doth not rise or set,
Haply I may remember,
And haply may forget.
—Christian Rossetti.

A Million and a Half in Bills.

Philadelphia Press.] Two men walked rapidly down Wall street yesterday afternoon and entered one of the prominent banking institutions. They were sturdy, heavy-set men. One carried a small black satchel. Both kept their eyes roaming from side to side. I followed them into the bank. The man with the satchel sat down, dropping the bag carelessly on the floor. The other went into the receiving teller's enclosure, reached down in his breast pocket and extracted a package of bills. These were hastily counted, and the strangers left. The teller jammed the bills into an envelope, sealed it up and pitched it into a safe, afterward closing the door in a perfunctory manner. The entire transaction occupied less than two minutes. Then the teller turned to me and said: "How much do you think was in that package?" "Why, about $500." "Yes, and a little more. It contained one million four hundred and forty odd thousand." "You don't mean it?" "Yes," he said, showing his memoranda. "You see, it's nearly all in $10,000 bills. There is no great danger in carrying notes of that denomination, because except here in New York they are so seldom used that suspicion would at once be directed to any one who attempted to negotiate them."

A Few Small Snail Matters.

Atlanta Constitution.] Many men miss great fortunes because their minds are always full of big schemes. The man with his head above the clouds is generally a failure. A man must know how to utilize the common things of life if he would prosper in a material way. This is strikingly illustrated in the lives of inventors. When an inventor goes in for a big thing, like perpetual motion, for instance, he goes to the poorhouse, but when he puts a rubber tip on the end of a lead pencil he makes a cool $100,000. The man who knows how to handle the little opportunities of life never fails to make his knowledge pay. The inventor of metal plates for shoes and heels made about $6,000,000. If he had scorned such small matters and turned his attention to steel armor for vessels he would probably have wasted his time and labor. The roller skate netted its inventor $1,000,000. The inventors of various little toys, puzzles and other trifles enjoy incomes ranging as high as $75,000 a year. Against all these successful men are arrayed a host of bright but unsuccessful inventors who spent their lives trying to accomplish something great.

The King of Spain.

He is a very small King, not yet three years old; and as some one has said, he has the most comfortable throne in Europe, on his nurse's lap. The Spanish Government pays $1,400,000 annually for his maintenance, so you see a king is a very expensive luxury, which we can well do without. His Austrian mother, Queen Christina, however, is very fond of him, and thinks he is worth more than all the gold in the world. When grave ambassadors come to visit her, she will run out of the room, bring in the little king, hold him up proudly, and displays his plump arms and pretty little feet. Once she went on a journey to Northern Spain. The chief magistrate of the district, a Duke, prepared a courteous address of welcome which he commenced to read. Just then the baby began to cry; the Queen blushed, but the Duke was both quick-witted and kind-hearted, and he stopped reading with the remark: "When the King speaks, his subjects should keep silence." This made the Queen laugh, caused everybody to feel good-natured, the crying soon ceased, and the address was finished.

Where the Apostles are Buried.

All that now remain of the Apostles of Christ are in the following places: Seven are in Rome—namely: Peter, Philip, James the Lesser, Jude, Bartholomew, Matthias and Simon. Three are in the Kingdom of Naples: Matthew at Salerno, Andrew at Alifanti, and Thomas at Ortona. One in Spain, James the Greater, whose remains are at St. Jago de Compostella. Of the body of St. John, the Evangelist, the remaining one of the 12, there is no knowledge. The evangelist, Mark and Luke are also buried in Italy, the former at Venice and the latter at Padua. St. Paul's remains are also believed to be in Italy. Peter is, of course, buried in the church at Rome which bears his name, as are also Simon and Jude. James the Lesser's remains are in the Church of the Holy Apostles. Bartholomew's is in the church on the island in the Tiber, which bears his name. Matthias' remains are said to be under the great altar of the renowned Basilica. Little faith, however, is placed in the legend.

The Coming Comet.

It is fancied by a grateful patron that the next comet will appear in the form of a huge bottle, having "Golden Medical Discovery" inscribed upon it in bold characters. Whether this conceit and high compliment will be verified, remains to be seen, but Dr. Pierce will continue to send forth that wonderful vegetable compound, and potent eradicator of disease. It has no equal in medicinal and health-giving properties, for imparting vigor and tone to the liver and kidneys, in purifying the blood, and through it cleansing and renewing the whole system. For scrofulous humors, and consumption, or lung scrofula, in its early stages, it is a positive specific. Druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

The World Moves!

Get Up and Ride!!

When the Big Guns in the Dry Goods trade, who are supposed to buy their goods on long time, insist on selling everything to everybody for strict cash, we think it is time for us, who have to pay cash and cash only for our goods before we can ever see them, to follow in their illustrious footsteps.

It is a well-known fact that all dealers in Grain are compelled by the commercial law of the times to pay for their supplies before they can get them, however much such dealers may be worth, or however they may be.

We have decided therefore to adopt the same rule in selling that we have to abide by in buying. In our case, this should always have been the rule. The unbusiness-like methods of others being our only excuse for wrong-doing, we trust that all of our patrons will "catch on" to the "new departure," and show their appreciation of our endeavors in the past to please them, by continuing to give us their patronage.

Recollect that we sell you

Meal and Feed

AT THE ACTUAL COST of the unground material. We also hold that to endeavor to do a

Hand to Hand Cash Transaction with every purchase is not only impracticable but also unbusiness-like, and we wish it distinctly understood that accounts with parties of a known place of business, that are always promptly paid on presentation without any foolishness, is in our opinion cash.

The Fascination of Niagara.

News Correspondent Buffalo Express.

"Never," said an old resident of the village of Niagara, "have I known so many people to go over the falls as during the past six months." During that time eight or nine persons have been known to pass over the great cataract, three of which cases were deliberate suicides. It is a source of wonder to many people living here that persons will come from a distance to Niagara apparently for the express purpose of committing suicide.

The press-dispatch sent out from Birmingham under the impression that a Miss Mead, of that place, was the last suicide, says that a young lady visited this place a few days ago, and has been strangely fascinated with Niagara Falls ever since. It is a well known fact that scarcely any two persons have the same impression when first looking upon the rapids or falls. Only a few evenings since your correspondent heard a clergyman of a neighboring city make this remark: "I never look upon Niagara that I have not a strong desire to get into the water, lie down, and go with it. I have no thought of suicide, but it always seemed to me that it would be pleasant to go with the water."

A lady from Rhode Island was making her first visit to Niagara, and was standing on one of the Sister Island bridges looking down upon the rapids underneath. She hurriedly turned round, and asked her companion, "What is the matter?" "Nothing," she replied, "but I feel as if I would like to go with the water."

"Why," asked her friend, "do you wish to commit suicide?" "Oh, no!" she exclaimed. "Nothing was further from my thoughts, but there was an impulse which I could not control, and I do not think that I would dare live on this earth."

"What does it make?" "Small Boy (hugging himself ecstatically)—Custard!"

A General Tie-up
The means of public conveyance in a large city, even for a few hours, during a strike of the employees, means a general tie-up of trade and industry for the city, and is attended with an enormous aggregate loss to the community.

The general tie-up of his system, known as constipation, and due to the strike of the most important organs for less important treatment and better care. If too long neglected, a torpid or sluggish liver will produce serious forms of kidney and disease, malarial trouble and general dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a preventive and cure of those disorders. They are prompt, safe and effective, pleasant to take, and entirely harmless.

Judge Logan and Gov. Vance.

The Raleigh Signal.

The recent death of Judge Logan recalls the fact that this noted man was the first person in the State to nominate Col. Zeb Vance for Governor. The facts are these:

There was a general big muster at Hamilton's Old Field in Rutherford county, as was the custom in those days; and, after the military exercises had been concluded, a meeting was organized and General Logan, as he was then, made a speech and nominated Col. Zeb Vance for Governor.

The motion was carried unanimously, and the files of the Raleigh Standard of 1862, will show that this was the first public expression in favor of Vance for Governor. The mention proved contagious, and meeting after meeting was held in quick succession all over the State until Col. Vance was made the candidate of the "Peace men" for Governor without more formality than the several county meetings. He was elected on the first Thursday of August, 1862, by 33,000 over Col. William Johnston, of Charlotte. From that day until parted by death George W. Logan and Zebulon B. Vance were firm friends. Their political differences never disturbed their personal attachment for each other, and no man throughout the State regretted Judge Logan's death more than Senator Vance.

One more tie has been severed that binds Senator Vance to the days of yore.

He Got a Pass.

Hank Vandenberg was a good man and weighed 250 pounds. He lived up in Saratoga county, and it was remarked of him that he didn't see any reason why politics shouldn't pay. Hank had a way of throwing his head up and back like a horse reared with too tight a check rein, and though he didn't do it as often as the horse, he always did it when he said something. Hank was elected sheriff of his county, and as in the performance of the duties of that office he traveled a good deal on the cars, he concluded to ask for a pass. The Delaware and Hudson spanned Hank's shrewdly, and so to the headquarters of that road in Albany he lied, and proffered his request in the following manner:

"Mr. President, the boys have elected me Sheriff up in Saratoga, and I just dropped in to get a pass over your road."

The President—But I do not see that that is a reason why I should give you a Why do you want a pass?

Hank (neigh high in air)—The fact is, Mr. President, I want a pass because I don't want to pay my fare.

He got it.

Woman's Work.

There is no end to the tasks which daily confront the good housewife. To be a successful housekeeper, the first requisite is good health. How can a woman contend against the trials and worries of house-keeping if she is suffering from those distressing irregularities, ailments and weaknesses peculiar to her sex? Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a specific for these disorders. The only remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturer. Satisfaction guaranteed in every case, or money refunded. See printed guarantee on bottle wrapper.

Bye as a Green Manure.

J. W. Sanders in N. C. Farmer.

In the experiment of growing rye for green manure, the rye was sown with the potatoes springing up after the first crop, and produced a tall and vigorous growth. It was turned under in the following spring, and the land was cultivated in another crop. I seriously doubt the advantage of any green crop where the succeeding crop is to be cultivated, as in the above experiment; but, as a manure for crop field-peas, rye has no superior.

Sown in the fall, it supplies a green pasture for swine and stock of all kinds up to the 1st of April following, when the stock should be taken off. The rye will then run up and head out, and, when ripe or nearly so, one bushel of field-peas per acre, and leaving the land 25 per cent. more fertile than before the rye and peas were sown. The peas ought to die on the land, and be turned in early in spring.

In this way the farmer gets a good crop of peas, puts his land in the best condition for next year's crops, and secures a rich dressing at a minimum cost; he can enrich his land without losing by a rest in weeds and grass. There is no more wasteful practice by farmers than that of resting their land in weeds, briars and sassafras bushes. Less guano and more common-sense methods in the treatment of land would pay in the end.

A Noted Female Pirate Dead.

The notorious female character known as "Spanish Belle," who has flourished on the Pacific coast since 1849, has just died in Idaho. There is scarcely a mining camp in all that western country that she has not visited. Her history, if correctly written, would fill a large volume; and it would be history of bad deeds only, for no praiseworthy act has ever been performed by her within the knowledge of the few who have been acquainted with her history for the past forty years. It seems that she gloried in the crimes she had committed, and during her convivial moments would relate some incidents in her past life. From this source it is gathered that at an early age in her native land she became the paramour of a noted sea pirate named Valzaj, whose vessel was a terror to the merchant ships plying the waters of the Pacific Ocean. She boasted that her duty, when the ship anchored at a port of prominence, to decoy rich men aboard the vessel, where they would surely be robbed and murdered. She followed this criminal career until the discovery of gold in California, when she left her pirate paramour, and landed in San Francisco in the summer of 1849. At the time of her death she was 85 years old, though she would easily have passed for 25 years younger.

The Dairy in Halifax County.

Weldon Notes.

There are no better sections of country for dairy farms anywhere than portions of Halifax county, and we are glad to note that this is beginning to be found out. In the Ringwood section much attention is given to butter making, and there is much improved stock in that neighborhood. Mr. H. S. Harrison in all has about fifty cows of Jersey stock. He milks six now, and makes nearly 2,000 lbs. of butter annually, which he readily sells at good prices. He has been engaged in this business only two years, we believe, and intends to develop it still further. In addition to this he sells a number of improved cattle every year. He has a bull, Sufficient Stock Pigeon, for which he gave one hundred dollars when he was four weeks old. He is a grandson of Stock Pigeon 3rd, one of the best animals in the world and worth $10,000. Mr. Harrison uses considerable ensilage for his cattle.

Mr. T. W. Fenner, of Scotland Neck, is also turning his attention to butter making. He now has about fifteen cows, and though this is his first year in the business he expects to make not less than 800 pounds, for all of which he has already secured purchasers. He is going into the business scientifically, and in a few years will be entirely independent of cotton and mortgages. Mr. Fenner is also raising horses on a small scale. His farm on the river has a fine pasture, and the cost of keeping stock is comparatively small.

Our people are rapidly discovering that there are nearer and better roads to fortune than through cotton fields, and are trying to get into the new road.

The clock strikes 12: "Darling, will you love me I am gone?"

"I can safely say yes, Mr. Smithers, because it does not look now as if you would ever go," replied the young lady. And then Smithers knew that his case was hopeless.

"Permet means to work," said the teacher to the language class. "Now each of you write a sentence containing the word." This is what Tommy Cumso, who reads the newspapers, wrote: "Tramps do not like to ferment."

ITS DEEP SIGNIFICANCE.

Great events impress themselves deeply upon the hearts of men, who are nevertheless given to fixing for them a place in history which shall emphasize their importance to posterity.

The rapidly approaching centennial anniversary of one of the most important epochs in the history of North Carolina is worthy of all the "pomp and circumstance" with which we can surround it. Standing out before the eyes of all thoughtful men in the study of human government grand and majestic in itself, it need not disdain even the gorgeous setting which a rejoicing people weave about the picture:—the pyrotechnic marvels that are to rival the constellations and the twinkling coronets of the firmament, by which the American is wont to celebrate his national pride; or the fluttering of flags, which accompany our ebullitions of patriotism; or the martial music, the shout, the cheers and the polished orations by which the proud citizens of a great republic give expression to their exultant feelings.

But we must not forget the grave, even solemn, significance of this occasion, if we would be worthy of it and make our children proud worthy of it. The North Carolinians of one hundred years ago were distinguished by that conservatism which, thank God! has not yet entirely left them. It was not enough that Anglo-Saxon force of character had reared a republic on the shores of a new world—it must be a good republic; it was not enough that the genius of man had drafted a constitution for the guidance of the States and the government of the people—it must be a good constitution; it was not enough that this federation of commonwealths had bound themselves together for the preservation and perpetuity of civil and religious liberty—the terms of contract must be conceived in wisdom and vitalized by justice and purity. The past had demonstrated the corruption of monarchy, but the evils even then increasing about them gave warning that the most popular form of government might become an unendurable tyranny.

North Carolina deliberated long; her people had reached the crisis of their fate in their infancy as a nation; they sought to "prove all things: hold fast that which is good;" and, in the ratification of the Federal constitution, they invoked God's blessing on an act so potent to shape their future destiny. May that blessing enrich our heritage, and continue to the generations that follow us.

A Beautiful Tribute.

The editor of the State Chronicle is often very graceful as he is always very forcible; and one rarely enjoys more in the same number of words than is expressed in the following tribute to ex-President Davis, brought forth by the announcement of his inability to be present here next week:

"The people of the whole State will deeply regret that Mr. Davis cannot honor the occasion by his presence. No living man connected with the Confederacy has so strong and lasting a hold upon the affections of the Southern people as this great old man, who has without complaint, vicariously suffered for the South for nearly a quarter of a century. He has never been before 'Peccavi.' He has simply accepted the situation. The South loves him—because it believes he was inflexible in war, though time has tempered the criticisms made by Southern men upon his acts, and in many cases demonstrated his superior wisdom. The South loves him—not because of his great ability as a statesman, though it glories in the merits that came to him in recognition of his great abilities. The South loves him—not because it regrets his defeat in the Civil War, because most of us believe that the end was best for the South. We would not have it other than it is, and the love we feel for Mr. Davis is not connected with any thought that he will ever emerge from his private life. He is loved not as a factor in future government, at all questions. The South would not follow him in any scheme of Secession, and he would not think of it. The South loves him—for his own purity of life and purpose, and because he has borne in his person the sufferings of the entire South. From a young man he has 'worn the white flower of a blameless life.'"

"His strength is as the strength of ten because his heart is pure."

Improving.
It is a gratifying fact that land tillage in the South is greatly improving in the methods employed and the results accomplished—in some sections, at least, if not throughout the whole country.

We saw cabbage last week, raised by Henry Collins, the market-gardener, that, for size and quality, are surpassed by none that are ever brought to this market. The land upon which these cabbage, with other market truck, were raised is two or three miles west of Fayetteville, and was formerly considered a sand-barren, almost useless for farming at a profit. That idea has been thoroughly exploded, for some of the best farming in the county has been done in that section since the war, demonstrating that no more satisfactory results can be obtained than from sandy land with clay sub-soil, treated to hard work and generous fertilizing.

In the same vicinity the late lamented J. W. Pearce used to make good wheat on land where, ten years before, the idea of raising wheat would have been scouted as preposterous.

Let the "Old North State" turn out "en masse" here at the Centennial Celebration in November, and give to that living patriot, soldier and statesman, ex-President Davis such a royal welcome as the hero of the 19th Century rightly deserves!

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

NORTH CAROLINA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Whereas, in the preamble of our State Constitution it is declared that we, the people of the State of North Carolina, are grateful to Almighty God, the Sovereign Ruler of Nations, for the preservation of the American Union, and existence of our civil, political and religious liberties, and acknowledge our dependence upon him for the continuance of these blessings to us and our posterity; and

Whereas, the Governor is directed by statute to set apart, by proclamation, a day in every year as a day of solemn and public thanksgiving to Almighty God for past blessings and of supplication for his continued kindness and care over us as a State and Nation; Now, therefore, I, Daniel G. Fowle, Governor of the State of North Carolina, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 28th of November, 1889, as a day of solemn and public thanksgiving and supplication, and I earnestly invoke the people of the State to devote that day to assemble themselves together on that day in their respective places of worship, and supplicate for us the perpetuity of our institutions and the continuance of God's blessings to us, and, whilst thus engaged, let us not forget to ask His blessings upon the Union of the States, and to contribute liberally to the helpless orphans that are dependent upon our care and to the institutions which have been organized in our midst for their maintenance.

Done at our city of Raleigh, this 24th day of November, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-nine, and in the One Hundred and Fourteenth Year of our American Independence.

By the Governor: DANIEL G. FOWLE.
S. F. TELFAIR, Private Sec'y.

A Fearful Snow Storm.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 8.—A Republican special from Dayton, N. M., says: Unless the snow storm, which has been raging for eight days, comes to an end soon, next summer will show the country covered with the dead bodies of animals as thickly as was the old Santa Fe trail in the sixties. The depth of the snow is now not less than twenty-six inches on a level, and in many places it has drifted seven feet high.

When the storm struck this section seven large herds of cattle, numbering from 400 to 2,000, were being held near this place, awaiting shipment to the eastern markets. The rain of a week ago was followed Thursday morning by a blizzard of snow and sleet which sent the herds to a southerly direction. In vain did the already half-frozen cowboys try to check the march of the herds, but on they went, though the increasing storm until, finding it utterly impossible to hold the cattle, the cowboys rode aside and let them pass, and when nearly dead, rode their exhausted horses into a canyon, in partially sheltered places, where they passed many hours of misery, without food or fire.

Two cowboys drifted into canyons where they found a cedar tree with rats nesting in it. They managed to light a fire with this. During the second night one of their horses died from cold. And having nothing to eat, the men cut pieces of meat from the dead animal, which they warmed and eat without salt. After being there over sixty hours they started out, and after much suffering and hardship, when nearly dead, rode their exhausted horses into a canyon, in partially sheltered places, where they passed many hours of misery, without food or fire.

Used a Razor on his Neck.

When the east-bound train, on the North Carolina Railroad, left Greensboro this morning, it had on board a passenger named T. H. Garrett, who was a citizen of Greensboro. He had purchased a ticket for Jacksonville, Fla., but why he boarded the train coming this way cannot be accounted for. It was noted that when the train was a few miles from Greensboro he went into the water closet and remained so long that it aroused suspicion. The conductor in his round found the door locked and began to investigate the matter. Raising the car window looking into the closet, he saw a man in a doublet and sword, and blood was flowing freely. The door of the closet was burst open, and it was found that Garrett had attempted to take his life by cutting his throat with a razor. He was still alive, and it was found that he had made a fearful gash on the left side of his neck, around under the left ear, and that he had barely missed the jugular vein.

He was put off the train at Burlington, and medical aid was summoned, and all the relief possible was given. The train left there he seemed to be much better. No cause whatever is assigned for the rash act, and if there be any, it was unknown to the passengers who witnessed his terrible attempt to take his life.

Attempted Her Life.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Mandie Morgan, who is said to be an important witness for the prosecution in the Cronin case, was sandbagged last night by an unknown person and, as the result of the blow, she is now in a dangerous condition. Mrs. Morgan was returning from a visit about 9:30 o'clock last night. To shorten the distance she walked through the alley in rear of the house. She had just entered the alley when a person closely wrapped in a heavy shawl passed from the shadow of the building, and dealt her a severe blow on the head. Had it not been for her hair the blow would probably have killed her. For nearly an hour Mrs. Morgan was unconscious. Upon recovering she described her assailant as a man disguised as a woman.

Suicide in a Court Room.

FRANKLIN, Mass., Nov. 9.—Elmer Labadie, a Frenchman about 45 years of age, while on a trial for rape of his daughter before Justice Wiggins, killed himself by cutting his throat with a jack knife. The testimony had been concluded and the justice said: "This matter is beyond my jurisdiction." "Mine too," exclaimed Labadie, as he drew a knife from under his clothes and slashed his throat before the officers could interfere, severing the jugular vein, and dying before assistance could be rendered. His three daughters witnessed the tragedy, one fainting. Labadie was a wood chopper.

A Union Soldier and the Confederate Home.

Raleigh News and Observer.]

While en route to Raleigh last week we had the pleasure of meeting Capt. A. M. Clarke, formerly of the Union army, now postmaster at Southern Pines, this State. Capt. Clarke informed us that on November 5th he would start to Washington for the purpose of soliciting contributions to the "Confederate Soldiers' Home." Capt. Clarke is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and expects to labor among them in this cause.

Snow Storm in Texas.

CLARENDON, Nov. 9.—The deepest snow that has fallen here in twelve years is on the ground now; it is six inches deep. All trains on the Fort Worth and Denver are blocked north of here, and there are eight engines in the snow drifts seventy-five miles northwest of this place. The drifts are nine feet deep. This is the worst snow storm that has ever visited the Pan Handle.

Status of the Virginia Legislature.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 9.—The latest estimate of the composition of the next Legislature is: Senate, twenty-nine Democrats, nine Republicans, and two districts in doubt; House of Delegates, eighty-four Democrats, three Republicans and five counties in doubt. Scott county elected a Republican to the House by a majority.

Iowa.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—A dispatch to the News from Des Moines, Iowa, says: There are evidently going to be lively times in the Legislature. The Republican majority is so small that every effort will be brought to bear for the defeat of Senator Allison and the enactment of a high license law. Who the electors of this State can accept, remains to be seen. Already the Democrats are casting about for a suitable candidate for the United States Senate, for whom a few Republicans can be induced to vote. Flushed with their victory in the election of Governor, they naturally turn to their successful candidate as the available man, but there is a stumbling block in the way in the shape of the probable defeat of their candidate for Lieutenant Governor, in which event to take Mr. Boies out of the Governor's chair would be to put a Republican Lieutenant Governor in it.

First Casualty on the C. F. & Y. V. Extension.

Wilmington Messenger.]
The first casualty of any consequence that has occurred on the C. F. & Y. V. extension from this city happened night before last while the train was coming in from Black River. Just as the train was approaching the north side of the junction with the tracks of the Wilmington Bridge Company, Mr. Arthur Dixon, like the wide-awake engineer that he is, had his eye on the rails and saw a man asleep on the track. He put on breaks and reversed his engine, but—the train came to a stand-still and he got out of his cab and, with the assistance of Conductor Will Dodson and the train hands, pulled a drunken sleeper off the track. The locomotive had stopped within ten feet of the man, and with another revolution of the ponderous wheels, the man with the "jag" on would have been ground to pieces. He was only saved by the wise rules that govern the C. F. & Y. V., and which are zealously followed by Engineer Dixon.

Accident on the Carolina Central.

Wilmington Star.]
A collision occurred on the Carolina Central Railroad, about five o'clock yesterday morning, in which one man was killed and two slightly injured. The scene of the accident was about twelve miles from Wilmington, and it was caused by a material train running into the local freight train which left Wilmington at 4 A. M.; the material train having the depot agent on board an hour later. For some cause the local freight was delayed—it is said that it was stalled just beyond Meares' Bluff. It stopped at a wood-pile between Phoenix and Northwest station, and the conductor, Capt. W. S. Wisart, knowing that the material train was behind, started back at once with a lantern, to give warning. The weather was so thick and foggy, and the train following was too near to be stopped, and it crashed into the rear coach of the local train. The fireman on the material train, Mr. George Smith, was caught in the wreck and badly injured, losing one leg and two hours afterwards, Mr. G. H. Meares, the engineer, escaped unhurt. There were only two passengers in the coach which was run into; one of them, Mr. Blackwell, of Durham, received some light scratches on the face, and the other escaped injury. The rear end of the passenger coach was smashed, and the cab of the engine of the material train was broken into splinters.

Mr. Jno. S. Divine, engineer of the freight train, ran his engine up to Cronly, where he telegraphed news of the accident to the office of the company here, and a relief train was at once sent out, with Drs. Wood and Bellamy. Mr. Smith, the wounded engineer, had died, however, before they reached the wreck. His remains were brought back to the city and prepared for burial, and later in the day were sent to his home at Laurinburg for interment.

Horrible Double Murder in Johnston County.

RALEIGH, Nov. 9.—News of a horrible double murder comes from Johnston county. An aged and respectable lady named Mrs. Celia Brown resided in this county about four miles from Selma with her little grandson eight years of age. This morning both were found murdered about 200 yards from the house, where they had been dragged for concealment. They had been killed with a gun. No clue has been obtained to the murder, and no cause can be assigned.

DIED.
MALLETT.—On the 7th inst., at Morehead City, N. C., D. A. F. MALLETT, in the 68th year of his age. The deceased was a brother of the late Dr. Wm. P. Mallett, of Chapel Hill, and Col. Peter Mallett, of New York.

IN MEMORIAM.

The sad intelligence has just reached us of the death, at Morehead City, on the 7th inst., of our old and dear friend, DR. A. F. MALLETT.

We knew him well and loved him much. His gentle smile and grasp were a welcome to all. Dr. Mallett was a native of Fayetteville, and practiced his profession here for some years.

During the Crimean war, he went to St. Petersburg, and volunteered as surgeon, serving as such in the Russian army.

When the late civil war began Dr. Mallett was practicing in Tennessee, from which State he returned to his home in this State, residing for the last few years at Morehead City.

Dr. Mallett was a most genial companion, and his inimitable wit—which he retained, in all his brightness throughout his chequered life—made him a charming companion for the young; and his refined and respectful deference to the aged, and his generosity to the poor and helpless, rendered him popular with all classes. A gentleman in all his instincts, and a man of varied learning, if he had failings they "ever leaned to virtue's side."

His friends, remembering his amiable character and happy nature, will pay for his death as a premature bereavement. Com.
